FR I E 2 France through its Song Culture

[Elective paper - 2 credits]

Preamble : The French song designates a musical genre in its own right, the addition of the adjective ‘French’ to the term ‘song’ tending to signify a specificity of its own to this form of musical expression in the French language and in the French speaking cultural world. This genre exists and was enhanced when the recording industry was established as a mass cultural market from the end of World War II. It is based on cultural and aesthetic peculiarities : the ‘French Song’ is inspired by classical French language literature (poetry in particular) and is nourished by a desire for linguistic and cultural resistance to a form of economic, linguistic and aesthetic domination. The expression ‘French Song’ therefore designates, since 1945, a musical genre that is defined first and foremost by the enhancement of the French language, with reference to masters and models inherited from poetic literature in the French language.

Aims and Objectives : This program is built around 6 themes : France and Paris, history, the French language, social life, love and politics. The main objective is to present the French culture and language organically intertwined in order to approach the understanding of the popular French mind

Outcome :

- The evaluation will be based on individual and / or group study projects delivered in the form of power point presentation in class ; as also an end semester examination.
- Such an overview will also help the future teachers among the students to add songs in their teaching.
